Fortune's Shawlette

JULY 10, 2015 | BY: TAMARA KELLY | 236 COMMENTS

Fortune's Shawlette was inspired by the ubiquitous corner to corner stitch, aka the diagonal box stitch. But of course I had to add my own twist to the idea, creating a lacier, more open, summer ready stitch pattern. And boy, did it earn it's name!

Disclaimer: This post includes affiliate links.

One skein of Knit Picks Fingering Hawthorne Fingering was used... and in the end, there was only 1 yard left over! Good fortune indeed! And while I was crocheting it, the stitch pattern reminded me of diamond plate – another sign!

The result is gorgeous, and just right for year round – bunch it up for warmth, stretch it out for a light as air layer on the shoulders. If you want a bigger shawl, you could try a thicker yarn, or even use the same yarn and add more rows – it's super easy, and once you get started, it'll fly off the hook!

Row 1: Ch 6, dc in 4th ch from hook, ch 1, skip next ch, dc in last ch; turn. (1 block)

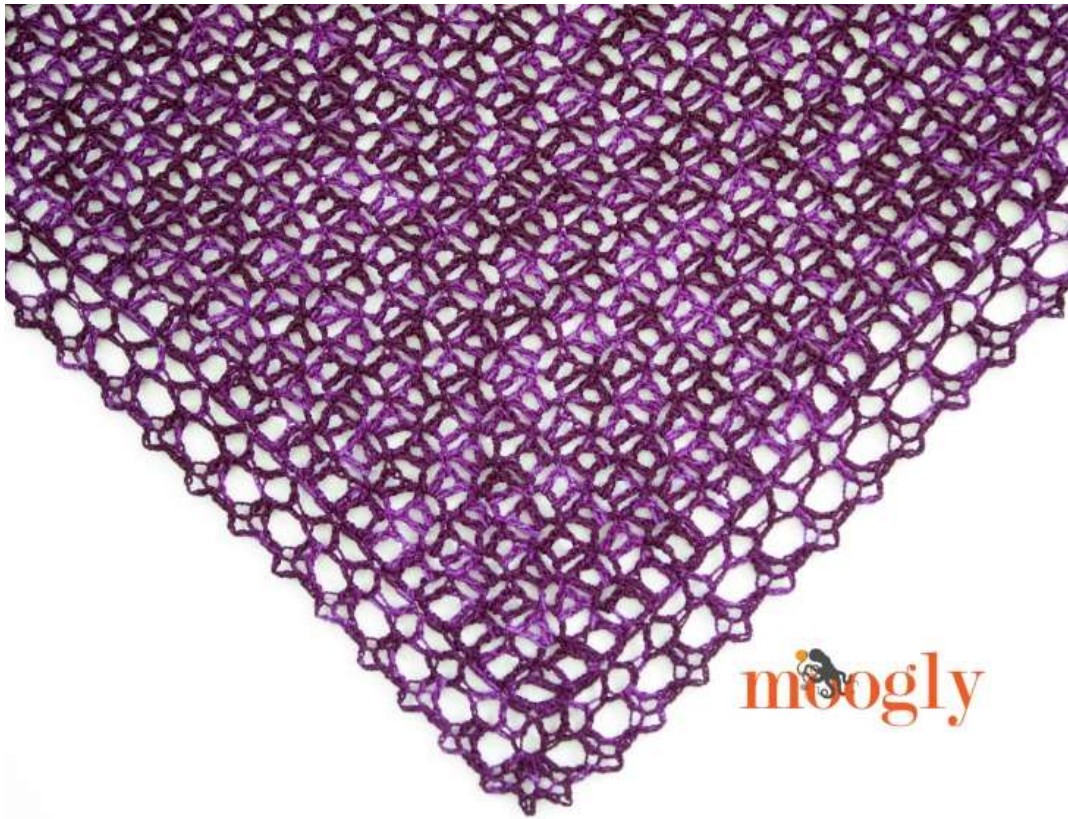

Row 2: Ch 6, dc in 4th ch from hook, ch 1, skip next ch, dc in last ch, (slip st, ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc) in ch-3 sp of previous row; turn. (2 blocks)

Row 3: Ch 6, dc in 4th ch from hook, ch 1, skip next ch, dc in last ch, [(slip st, ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc) in next ch-3 sp of previous row] twice; turn. (3 blocks)

Row 4: Ch 6, dc in 4th ch from hook, ch 1, skip next ch, dc in last ch, [(slip st, ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc) in next ch-3 sp of previous row] 3 times; turn. (4 blocks)

Row 5 – 40: Continue as above, increasing 1 block on each row until there are 40 blocks across. If you want a bigger shawl, continue until desired width.

Row 41: Ch 4, sc in 2nd ch from hook, ch 1, skip 1 ch, dc in last ch, [(slip st, ch 1, sc, ch 1, dc) in next ch-3 sp of previous row] 41 times; do NOT turn. Continue to edging.

Edging Row 1: Working along sides, ch 1, sc 2 sts in each block (each dc and each ch-3 sp) along both sides, working an extra sc at the point of Row 1; turn. (165 sts – 82 sts per side, plus 1 at the point) NOTE: Place a stitch marker in the extra stitch at the point.

Edging Row 2: Ch 2, (dc, ch 3, dc) in 1st st, [skip 2 sts, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st] until 1 st remains before the marked stitch, skip the next st, (dc, ch 2, dc) in the marked st (place marker in this ch-2 sp), skip 1 st, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st, [skip 2 sts, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st] until 3 sts remain, skip the next 2 sts, (dc, ch 3, dc) in the last st; turn. (57 V sts)

Edging Row 3: Ch 2, dc in 1st st, (2 dc, ch 2) in each ch-2 sp until you get to the marked ch-2 sp, 5 dc in marked ch sp (remove marker), ch 2, (2 dc, ch 2) in each remaining ch-2 sp until only 1 ch-2 sp remains, dc 2 in the last ch-2 sp, dc in the last st; turn. (61 dc sts)

Edging Row 4: Ch 1, sl st in 2nd st, ch 3, sl st in next st, (ch 2, sl st in next st, ch 3, sl st in next st) until you get to the dc-5 set at the point, ch 2, sl st in first dc, ch 3, sl st in second dc, (sl st, ch 3, sl st) in third dc, sl st in fourth dc, ch 3, sl st in 5th dc, (ch 2, sl st in next st, ch 3, sl st in next st) along the remaining sts, sl st in last st; break yarn and finish off.

I hope you enjoy Fortune's Shawlette free crochet pattern! It was super fun to crochet – and fast too! I love one skein patterns, and I love the effect of blocking lace like this. It was pretty before blocking, but blocking it out really made the stitches open up beautifully. As for the shawl pins, the stick was picked up at my local JoAnn fabrics, and the copper swirl was part of the first Ficstitches Yarn Kit – you can order it separately at Craftwrich Creations!

I'm so glad you added this! I was just scrolling through to see if anyone else was having the same problem. I made one with some heavier "fingering" weight and it wasn't as lacy as yours. I decided to use more of a lace yarn and it is bunching up a bit. I kept thinking that the weight would eventually cause it to lay as nicely as yours does. Thank you for sharing another awesome.s pattern! I hope to make about 10 of these for Christmas!

Gorgeous pattern! I did it like in the youtube video but with the skipping, but my work doesn't really look like your pattern. Probably because I used a 100% cotton yarn, so everything looks very compact. Well since this one is only a test I'm not too unhappy about it. However you lost me completely at the edging rows. I hope you will show how to make those in your video as well =) Can't wait for it =D and next time I'll try a viscose cotton yarn because wool or polyacrylic yarns are just too hot for summer. I hope it'll work. However thank you so much for the gorgeous pattern.

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

76

Sorry Anja! The little squares that you're making in this pattern. 😊 Because of the nature of this stitch, there aren't standard rows to measure.

Reply

Anja says
July 21, 2015 at 10:15 am

77

I'm sorry if this is a stupid question, but I read one of the other comments where someone said they finished their shawl and it's small but once they blocked it it will hopefully be as big as the one you made. Now here's the question:

So blocking the shawl is actually an activity that one has to do after the actual crochet part is over? How do you block it? I mean what does one have to do in order to block the shawl, what kind of activity is behind that term? Can you describe what blocking as an activity actually means or what it should be/look like?

I'm sorry if this is a weird or stupid question. But I love the pattern just so much and I want to do it right.

Tamara Kelly says
July 21, 2015 at 8:16 pm

78

Hi Anja! There are several methods of blocking, but with lace, the best way is usually to get the finished item soaked, gently squeeze out the excess water, and then pin it out on a blocking board, stretching the fabric into shape, and then letting it air dry. 😊

Hi Dawn! To break it down in "words" rather than pattern-speak, it's a V stitch in every other stitch, with 3 V sts in the point. The first and last V stitch, at the top of the shawl on either side, is a bit wider than the rest, with a ch-3 instead of a ch-2. Does that help?

Fell in love with this the minute I saw it!!! I am making one now using a locally made super wash merino wool that I picked up in Tempe, AZ. It is a hand painted yarn in jade green and teal. I have just started the edging this evening and the shawl is gorgeous! Very small, but I know when I block it it will be the finished size of your shawl. Thank you very much for offering this pattern to all of us, it is so generous of you. The pattern is very well written and easy to follow. The repeat allows it to be a handy "non-thinking" pattern and the result is amazing. Would love to send you a picture after it is completed. Is there a way to do that? Again, thanks! I am a huge fan!

Hi, loveing the pattern. And thank u so much. I am currently having a bit of troble with edging row 3. The number of the stiches, 56times down one side. So do I do the that in every chain space. As that does add up, but looks nothing like your shwal edging. As u also seem to miss one. Or is it 2dc ch2 x2 in each ch sp.????? Confused. Kind regards.

Thank-you for this lovely pattern! I have been saving some handpainted merino from a very special trip, and this was the perfect shawl for it.

I, also had some problems with the edging, this is what I did: Edging Row 2: Ch 2, (dc, ch 3, dc) in 1st st, skip 2 sts, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st 26 times, [skip the next st, (dc, ch 2, dc) in the next st] 4 times, skip 2 sts, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st 26 times, skip the next 3 sts, (dc, ch 3, dc) in the ch 1 sp between the dc and sc at the end of row 4]; turn. (57 V sts)

I will post the 3rd row tomorrow, as my crafting time is over for today.

Edging Row 4: sl st in 2nd dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc, (ch 2, sl st in next dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc) 28 times, ch 3, sl st in next dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc, (ch 2, sl st in next dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc) 28 times, sl st in the top of ch2 from row 3; break yarn and finish off. For some reason the Ravelry software took out my brackets. THIS is what I did: Edging Row 2: Ch 2, (dc, ch 3, dc) in 1st sc, {skip 2 sts, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st} 26 times, {skip the next st, (dc, ch 2, dc) in the next st } 4 times, {skip 2 sts, (dc, ch 2, dc) in next st} 26 times, skip the next 3 sts, (dc, ch 3, dc) in the ch 1 sp between the dc and sc at the end of row 4; turn. (57 V sts)

Edging Row 3: Ch 2, dc in 1st st, {(2 dc, ch 2) in next ch sp} 28 times, 4 dc in next ch sp (at the point), ch 2, {(2 dc, ch 2) in next ch sp} 27 times, 2dc in the last ch3 sp(V st), dc in the top of the ch2 from row 2; turn. (118 dc sts)

Edging Row 4: sl st in 2nd dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc, (ch 2, sl st in next dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc) 28 times, ch 3, sl st in next dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc, (ch 2, sl st in next dc, ch 3, sl st in next dc) 28 times, sl st in the top of ch2 from row 3; break yarn and finish off. I had a with edging row 3. I've redone it three times and I cannot get 56 repeats on a single side. Since 28 is half, I was wondering if 56 was supposed to be for the entire edging. That makes sense to me because edging row 2 has 57 V sts.

Your pattern came to me today, and now the yarn is now sitting on my lap smiling at me. I now know why I couldn't use it before - it was waiting just for you! it is perfect!!!! and I am so very happy. I simply can't remember when I last made something for myself.

I totally love this pattern, but I cannot figure out the edging at all. I've made my out of cotton, because it seemed more summery than acrylic. I've finished up the pattern, and it looks nothing like this, but it's still pretty. I'm completely stuck on the edging row 1 where it says sc 2 stitches in block. Mine doesn't really have blocks. Should I be putting 2 single crochet stitches in each space around?

Reply

Tamara Kelly says
July 27, 2015 at 1:38 pm

Hi Terri! It will open up with blocking. 😊 The little sets of “ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc” each make a block, or small square. So basically you work 2 sc in each block, square, row, or space along the edge. They’re all the same thing, really. 😊

Question regarding row 1 of the edging. It says to work into the ‘blocks’. What space is considered the ‘block’? From the corner going left along my edge it looks like there are 2 horizontal bars of stitches, an open space, a vertical bar of stitches, a 2nd open space, a second vertical bar of stitches, a 3rd open space, then 2 horizontal bars of stitches. It continues that way along the edge. Are the ‘blocks’ every open space??

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

July 27, 2015 at 1:54 pm

118

Hi Annie! Each set of ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc is a block. So as you work along the side, you can alternate between working 2 sc between the 2 dc, and around the ch at the bottom of one block, and around the second dc of the next block. Does that make sense? I hope to get the video made very soon.

Hi, thanks for this gorgeous pattern. I can see how the Blocking will be helpful when finished.

For the first couple of rows it was bunching up until I watched the Video and realized what the chain 3 space was.

That was extremely helpful!

I'm just wondering about these instructions: {(slip st, ch 3, ch 1 dc) in next ch-3 sp of previous row} 3 times; turn

Do you do the slip stitch twice or only first at the beginning of the stitches? and also do you chain 3 three times?

Thanks, Elizabeth

121

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

July 27, 2015 at 3:15 pm

Hi Elizabeth! You slip stitch into that ch 3 space like in the video, then ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc in the same ch 3, then that brings you to the next edge where you can sl st in the ch 3 space, and start a new block. Does that help?

122

Reply

Elizabeth Rhodes says

July 27, 2015 at 8:15 pm

123

Thanks! I'm not sure what you mean by the "next edge?" So are you starting a new block in a separate chain 3 space or in the same chain 3 space as when you first do the first (slip st, ch3, dc, ch 1, dc)?

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

July 28, 2015 at 11:00 am

Each ch 3 sp will have a new block built up from it on the next row. The video will make it all very clear, I think, as soon as I can get it made. I'm hoping to debut it next week! 😊

Elizabeth says

July 28, 2015 at 10:04 am

125

Thanks! I'm not sure what you mean by "the next edge?" Are you using the same ch 3 space or is each new block going into the next ch3 sp?? So if you are doing the following 3 times (slip st, ch 3, dc, ch 1, dc) each is going into a new ch-3 space or are all 3 going into only one ch-3 space? Thanks so much!!

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

July 28, 2015 at 10:58 am

Ah, ok! Sorry, it's always going into a new one. Presuming you are right handed, when you make a set of "ch 3, dc, ch 2, dc" it will bring you up to the edge of another block in the previous row. You slip into that new block and start again to make a new block. As you're working the top edge of the piece should have a sort of sawtooth or zigzag edge.

Can I ask a question more about the yarn than the pattern. I have never used yarn that came as a "hank" (?) like this. I did not roll it into a ball before I started and I ran really short for the pattern. My question is...if I had rolled it into a ball, would it have stretched the yarn to the point that I might have had enough? Does that make a difference?

I appreciate any advice. LOVE this pattern!

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

July 31, 2015 at 9:24 am

Hi Terri! The main reason to roll the yarn into a ball or cake is so that it doesn't tangle as you use it - I'm impressed you were able to do so, when I've tried I end up with a big mess! I'm sorry you ran so short, I had a bit left over, so I'm wondering if it might have been a gauge issue?

Hi Tamara,

Thank you very much for sharing what will probably be a beautiful shawl pattern (once I figure out what I'm doing wrong). I can't figure out where to go once I've completed the 3rd square. Are you planning to share a chart for this pattern? Because that's where I usually turn to figure out where I've gotten lost while crocheting a new pattern. I have viewed the video link which you have thoughtfully provided; however, the woman crocheting that form of the pattern only chains 3 after the first two boxes. I have made that pattern numerous times and what is pictured above isn't that. Can you please have patience with me and tell me where I have gone wrong?

Hi Tamara,

I have finished the body of this shawl and am ready for the border. I hope you include the border in your video because I am having trouble identifying the "block" where the 2 sc should go in row 1. My stitches are a lot rougher than yours and that's probably the problem. I think it will look much better when I block it. By the way, I used yarnsub.com to see if I had something in my stash for this and it worked great I had some Valley Yarns fingering in the color North Sea. It looks lovely. Again, the blocking will tell the story. I'll post a pic if it turns out well. Thanks for all you do. I've learned so much from you.

Either I've become an incredibly loose crocheter or I'm taking the gauge incorrectly. Gauge: 6 boxes in a row = 4"—that's measured horizontally, right? Because at best, I'm getting 5 boxes to 4" on an I hook, and I'm worried that if I go down to H or G, the fabric will be so dense that it won't open up when blocked.

I made one, it came out beautiful. Used a worsted weight. It is presently submitted in the local county fair!

Thank you for the pattern, just started one with a little lighter yarn, bigger hook., N. I'm sure it will be a beauty!

Thanks

I'm wondering is there anything to say approximately how much yarn I need left to make the edging? I'm making it in malabrigo sock, which is about 439 yards/skein...I want it to be a little bit bigger if I can manage it, it's for my wedding. Only have one skein of the colorway though so not sure how much further I may be able to stretch it. They didn't have more at the shop and sadly I can't afford to order online...plus I hate the risk of the colors being different with it.

I'm afraid I didn't measure out how much was needed for just the edging. My best recommendation would be to look at the finished projects on Ravelry, for someone who used a different yarn for the edging, and see if they list the yardage for that yarn.

Thankyou Tamara.

I have made the Moogly shawl in some gorgeous Scottish yarn (merino/silk/yak mix) dyed by my friend Helen at Ripples Crafts. It is blocking now but I love it and I will be gifting it to a friend in need. Thanks for your generosity to make the pattern free and your time to make videos which I found very helpful as I'm a bit of a beginner at crochet.

hello, this beautiful patter thanks
I'm trying to do with the wool but is very compact and not decorated like your
Could you help me?

These are the specifications of the wool

Name: Magic Jawoll Dégradé

Brand: Lang Yarns

Weight: Fingering / 4 ply (14 wpi)?

Wraps per inch

Meterage: 437 yards (400 meters)

Unit weight: 100 grams (3.53 ounces)

Gauge: 28.0 to 32.0 sts = 4 inches

Needle size: US 1½ - 4 or 2.5 - 3.5mm

Fibers: 75% Wool

25% Nylon (Polyamide)

I am using needle size: 3.5mm

Thank you very much

Hello Elisabetta! This pattern calls for fingering weight yarn much like what you're using, so that's fine, but it also calls for a 6mm hook, which is significantly larger than a 3.5mm hook. So using the 3.5mm hook will create a much more compact fabric. Even with the 6mm hook, it doesn't open up to the full lace look until you block it.

I think I've done something wrong towards the end with mine. It was a triangle and it was fine, and then suddenly it started getting wider faster than it was getting taller. I didn't think anything of it, but then when I started doing the edging, I realized that instead of the nice blocks that I have further down towards the point, my three dcs in the chains are at the edge, so I've got nowhere to put the two scs! Basically, instead of having nice |__|__|__, I've got |__|__|__|__| ...does that makes sense? Maybe I'll just pull out the edging and a bunch of rows and see if redoing it fixes the problem...

Tamara Kelly says

October 1, 2015 at 9:15 am

Hi Bethany! You can put the 2 sc between the dc sts on one row, then around the dc in the next row. I'm not sure why it's getting wider though... Hm. Have you checked the video and charts?

Hi Tamara,

beautiful shawlette. Thank you for the pattern. Always glad to find pretty crochet patterns since I prefer that to knitting.

I have a question about the yarn used. A couple of reviewers said the yarn was scratchy feeling. How did you find the yarn?

Thanks again.

I didn't find it to be scratchy, but it does contain wool, and some people are more sensitive to that than others. Yarnsub.com is a great resource for options!

Hi Tamara, looking forward to trying another of your amazing patterns!! Tried going through comments to find answer to my question but there are far too many. My apologies if it's been asked... May you please confirm for me hook size? I bought a super fine (#1) yarn for this pattern. Seems even thinner than my fingering yarn. Your pattern calls for 6mm hook. That seems huge and my stitches are looking very sloppy! Is this correct? Please confirm.
Thx again for all of your amazing patterns!

Hi Tamara. I am in love with this pattern. I keep staring at it and I finally have the perfect person to make it for. I just have a question. I don't have fingering yarn, I would like to use the Caron simply soft medium weight.
Do you think it will turn out the same or look chunky. And which hook size would you recommend? Thank you so much, for great patterns and an open heart to share.

Tamara Kelly says

Hi Connie! Thank you! It will certainly be thicker/warmer, but of course that's not necessarily a bad thing! 😊 I would bump up to a size M/N hook to get the same lacy look, or maybe just to a K to get a less lacy look. 😊 You may wish to steam block it when it is done to open up the lace and keep it open.

Stunning? Is not even the word for this!! Cannot wait to try it, got my yarn all picked out, hoping I can come close to replicating. Thank you for the free pattern. It's nice when you come across something that you know could be sold by the pattern and the designer could make some fun money from it but yet they choose to share the gift of their creativity to others. I'm making this shawl for my grandmother who recently had to move into assisted living and this has her name all over it. I can't work due to a disabling illness so money is tight to say the least so I'm happy I can use your free pattern to help comfort grandma with this beautiful shawl. Thank you for your talents!

Hello. I left you a message on Ravelry. Here was the message:

Hello. Thank you for this pattern, it's a lovely stitch. I'm having trouble with Edging Row 2. When I come to the end of the first side, I have three stitches left, not one (before the point). I have 82 stitches per side plus 1 at the point from Edging Row 1, so my stitch count is right. I can't figure out where I went wrong. Any suggestions you have would be appreciated. Thanks.

Hi Kathy! Sorry, I miss messages sometimes. And thank you!

Ok, so I'm not sure what went wrong, but now my own math is fighting with me. :/ I would recommend that when you get to 3 sts remaining, you skip 1, V st in the next skip 1, then make the corner. Then, mirror that working up the other side. I'm sorry about the confusion!

Hi,

I think the number of scs should be multiples of 7 to work this out. I've had 98 stitches (+1) down the side and I could do just like the pattern says . When I was doing my second shawlette,, I did one row of the body less and ended up with 96 stitches (+1). And I couldn't follow the pattern either. The written pattern and video has 14 stitches (+1) so that makes sense,, doesn't it?

Hope it helps....

I'd been eyeing this for a while, but last month I got the motivation to start this - as a birthday present for my younger sister. I had the perfect color of Caron simply soft. I used a K hook and the result was gorgeous. I've added it to my ravelry projects, I'd love for you to check it out.

Also, and you might not remember this, I promised you pictures of the "summer breeze" sweater that I made, I just uploaded those to Ravelry as well.

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

February 28, 2017 at 10:13 am

Hi Linda! Each block is a "chunk" of the [ch 3, dc, ch 2, dc]. So when you are working along the edges, you'll come to either a chain 3 or a dc working as the edge of each block. Does that help? It's pretty much like working along the sides of rows.

Hi Tamara, I fell in love with the pattern and got started with it...but soon realized that I was out of yarn (purchased the same one that you used). I am short of yarn for the very last row! Checked their website, and this color will not be available till May. Do you think if I skip the last row, the shawl will look unfinished? Any suggestions to make it look 'complete'? Also, what wool wash do you use when you block? Thanks!

Reply

Tamara Kelly says

March 20, 2017 at 9:16 am

Oh no! I'd just skip the last row - I think it'll be fine! I might skip the last regular row and use that yarn to make the edging, if it's a matter of skipping a row or the edging row - then it will still look "finished." I like Unicorn Fibre's rinses and washes! 😊
